

Georgetown U Takes Trophy

In a tense Saturday night climax, Duke University defeated Georgetown and, thereby, won the Miller and Rhoads trophy in the Southern Intercollegiate Chess Association tournament held here at the University of Richmond last week end.

Duke compiled a fabulous 16 points out of a possible 20, with the University of North Carolina close behind with 15 points. Following in the third, fourth, and fifth positions were, respectively: Georgetown with 11 points, the University of Richmond with 10½ points, and the University of Virginia with 7½ points.

Donald Burdick, playing first board for Duke, received the prize for best record on board one. Runner-up for the prize was Kit Crittenden of North Carolina, followed within a half of a point by Don Fidlow of Richmond and Dave Muller of Georgetown. Another prize, the award for the most brilliant game played, went to Don Fidlow for his win over Kit Crittenden. This win by Fidlow marked the first time that Crittenden had ever been beaten in intercollegiate play.
